DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 7 and 9 are objected to because of the following informalities: claim 7 is improperly dependent and "carrier" in claim 9 lacks antecedent basis. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The preamble of claim 1, specifies a "cleaning device". However, the body of the claim lacks any cleaning element.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language;

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 2006/0010625 (Tapper et al.).

The Tapper et al. patent disclose a cleaning system (10) comprising a head including a housing (18), a manually operated handle (12), at least one vibratory unit (30) mounted in the housing (18), and a cleaning pad (16). Although the handle is rigid, plastic is flexible and in the tubular form is considered to inherently oscillate. The vibratory unit (30) includes a rotating shaft having an eccentrically mounted weight (32) which being constructed and positioned as claimed would impart a substantially vertically oriented vibration to the housing (18) as claimed. The device also includes rechargeable batteries and a power switch (31) (paragraph [0042]).

Claims 1-3 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by USP 5,309,593 (Yonechara).

Figures 1 and 3 illustrate the embodiment which anticipates the claims. The reference discloses a device which comprises a housing (1) having a vibrating plate (8) which can be equipped with a cloth (19) for cleaning a hard surface. The device also includes a handle (18) which would to some degree, inherently oscillate with respect to the housing (1). The housing includes an eccentric weight (2) mounted on a rotating shaft (6) which are connected to an arm (4) connected to the vibrating plate (8). The vibrations are substantially in a vertical direction. The frequency of oscillations are in the range claimed (see col.6, lines 1-5; col.8, lines 5-10).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USP 5,309,593 (Yonechara) in view of US patent 5,950,270 (Tono).

Art Unit: 1744

The Yonechara patent is silent as to providing a vibration damping means between the handle and vibration plate. The Tono patent discloses a machine having a vibrating plate connected to a manual handle in which there is positioned a shock dampening means (8) to reduce the vibration to the handle. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the dampening means (8) of the Tono patent in the device of the Yonechara device for the know advantage of reducing shock to the handle.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6 and 7 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

As allowable subject matter has been indicated, applicant's reply must either comply with all formal requirements or specifically traverse each requirement not complied with. See 37 CFR 1.111(b) and MPEP § 707.07(a).
